CityVision API

Arcontech's CityVision API facilitates fast and efficient development of real-time market data applications. Simple and elegant, one line written under the API can equate to as much as four pages of underlying code. A further and significant advantage of our API is that given the complexities and nuances associated with writing code for real-time market data, years of experience and knowledge are incorporated into the straight forward instructions used by the API. This saves on the resources needed to develop whilst speeding time to deployment.
