LONDON, June 17, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- For the thousands of financial professionals who rely on the established functionality and market sheets in Excel, Arcontech confirms it will continue to support that familiar functionality with its Excelerator real-time Excel Add-In, avoiding disruption and the need to migrate large and complicated worksheets.

A seamless drop-in for LSEG data consumption, Excelerators "compatibility" mode means that when installed users are unaware of Excelerators adoption of their existing worksheets whilst at the same time they can continue to use all the function calls and formulae that are second nature when creating value from the data they consume. There are no transfers or migrations, it simply works.

Excelerator is available as a standalone product or together with an interoperable market data terminal display. With the ability to ingest data from RTDS or directly from any market data vendor, singularly or as a combination, Excelerator Desktop is the ideal replacement to a second terminal at a reduced cost. There is absolutely no compromise on the quality of data which when permissioned can still be sourced from LSEG, Bloomberg B-PIPE, any other vendor or internal source.

Used by numerous Tier 1 banks with global deployments in multiple hundreds, Arcontech Excelerator has developed a reputation as the pre-eminent real-time Excel Add-In for the financial market professional whilst helping clients realise maximum value by consuming the data they want, in a manner they are familiar with.
